Thanks Makita. I did explain this to Maher, but the owner keeps reaching out to Maher for further updates. It seems that the owner don't have an understanding that Watershed Managements inspections are complete with no problems found. I will see if Maher will explain this to him again. Thanks as always!

Kimbry_

Based on the work that we have performed to date, we do not have a need to complete any additional investigations at this juncture. Again no deficiencies were observed regarding the sewer, so thus no repairs are needed. My understanding is that the owner is planning to enlist engineers to evaluate the structural integrity of the structure and further investigate the cave-in internal to the structure.

Okay. Are there any plans to do any further investigations? The customer is asking what the next step is. Please advise. Thanks again!
